Here's a link to a video about your health and that of our residents/clients. It's less than six minutes long and has a lot of common sense answers.

Below are links to resources from DHS and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). These sites are updated as circumstances are changing and evolving, in some cases on a daily basis. We are also including a link to Wisconsin local public health department information. Within each county, the public health department is the first line of contact for situations that impact the community's health. These local departments have the most up-to-date resources and are working closely with DHS.
